1 INT. CELL - NIGHT

Fade in.

Machine gun fire

-- wakes Isaac Mangwiyo (20's) asleep on a dirty mattress on a concrete floor.

It takes his eyes a while to adjust.

He gets up, tired.

He's intrigued at the England football kit he's wearing, and amazed at his brand new Nike trainers!

He notices a cockroach on the floor, on his back, his legs wiggling frantically, dying.

Isaac flicks it over. It scuttles across the floor and under a gap in the door.

He feels his way around the cell in the dark, and follows the cockroach to the door.

He tries to open it. He can't.

BANG! BANG! BANG!

It echoes like a dungeon.

ISAAC
(in Swahili, English subtitles)
Help! Help! Help!

Footsteps.

Isaac holds his breath and listens.

Footsteps get closer. Keys jangle.

A letter box slides opens. A Guard looks in.

ISAAC
(in Swahili, English subtitles)
Water, please. Please.

The huge Guard, grenade-for-brains, dressed in army-issue combats, bomber jacket and baseball cap, unlocks the door and enters the cell, pointing an Uzi at Isaac.

Isaac falls to his knees, hands in prayer.
